Synopsis:

The interim injunction obtained on an ex-parte basis is an indispensable pre-emptive remedy in commercial and civil litigation. It comes in the form of restraining or compelling orders to prevent irretrievable events from occurring, ranging from the dissipation of assets to the destruction of evidence.

As it is usually applied on an urgent basis, the rules of procedure allow for such applications to be made to the exclusion of the other party subject to sufficient justification at the hearing of the ex parte application.

This talk aims to highlight the effective advocacy skills required in making such ex parte applications.

The speakers:

Gananathan Pathmanathan was admitted as an Advocate & Solicitor of the High Court of Malaya in 1992. His main practice areas include construction and corporate law, and dispute resolution. He is a partner in the firm of Messrs Gananathan Loh and has been an advocacy trainer since 2012. Gana has conducted advocacy training in Malaysia, Singapore and South Africa.

James Khong was called to the Bar of England & Wales in 2001 and was admitted as an Advocate & Solicitor of the High Court of Malaya in 2003. James practices mainly in the areas of corporate and commercial disputes. James has been an advocacy trainer since 2012 and has conducted advocacy training in Malaysia, Hong Kong, Australia and South Africa.
