The adoption of technology in regulated spaces such as finance and law urges individuals, businesses and organisations to embrace innovation at an accelerated pace. As the 4th industrial revolution wave sweeps across the region, Malaysia is determined to promote technology as the driving force towards becoming an advanced nation.

This event offers expert insights on the regulatory environment, and the hottest news in the FinTech, LawTech and RegTech industries. Join us to learn how the convergence of FinTech, LawTech and RegTech can shape our future and the world we live in.

About The Speakers

Daniel Khoo is an advocate for all things digital from the home to the marketplace. The last two decades of his career as an SAP Professional saw him leading teams in technical delivery, digital transformation and process improvement in various sectors in the region. Currently a Practice Leader in the SAP Customer Experience space, he pushes the “Run Simple, Run Better” agenda regionally, evangelising the use of X+O (Experience and Operational) Data for businesses to understand, manage and orchestrate a better customer experience across diverse sectors ranging from High Tech, Consumer Products, Mills, Education, Professional Services, Real estate Hospitality and Construction, etc. Daniel speaks regularly on panels, forums and webinars and is passionate about simplifying work AND life with technology and changes with coffee to start the day.

Patricia Chung Wei Leng is a LLB (Hons) London graduate with a professional CLP, and a qualified and registered IP Agents admitted by MyIPO. She is a registered member of CI Arb (UK & Malaysia), and a registered associate of MI Arb, and an Accredited Mediator by Malaysian Bar Mediation Centre. Serving devotedly on the IT Subcommittee of Penang Bar currently, she is also a member of FOAM, PWCC, and also a committee of IIPCC (Intellectual Property Commercialisation Council), a global, non-profit organisation providing a pool of IP-related resources for the innovator and enterprises to enhance their corporate value. Today, Patricia is the brain and brawn behind the nationally renowned Chung Chambers, specialising in IP and corporate affairs. She has garnered her very specific set of skills and cumulated experiences from her rich career history before Chung Chambers, when she was head of the Legal Department and Patent Steering Committee in an MNC in Singapore. At present, Patricia’s shrewd leadership has guided Chung Chambers to be awarded “Best IP Law Firm in Malaysia” by APAC Insider in 2015, and has auspiciously become a key partner of Lawtech Malaysia by invitation. Patricia too, is a much sought after professional in the market, mentoring and sharing her experiences with many as a seasoned speaker, organising workshops, judging legal and technology related competition, besides contributing Legal Written Opinions from time to time to reputable Financial Institutions and Corporate Companies.

Eugene Cheong is the Asia Pacific Regional Legal Risk Director for US-based Data Analytics provider Verisk Analytics Inc. and its Group of Companies and is currently attached to Verisk’s energy research and consultancy subsidiary - Wood Mackenzie - in Singapore. Having read law at the University of Auckland in New Zealand, Eugene has been called to both the New Zealand and Malaysian Bars. He was in private practice in Penang for 17 years; the last 10 of those years as Managing Partner of his own legal firm. In 2009 Eugene left legal practice and joined US multi-national National Instruments Inc. as its first Asian Legal Director. After nearly 7 years, he then moved on to new challenges with his present position in Singapore. While in practice, Eugene specialised in Corporate & Commercial Law and Information & Communications Technology Law. He served the Penang Bar Committee in multiple roles as Treasurer, Social and Young Lawyers Subcommittee Chairman and was also on the Malaysian Bar IT and Cyberlaws Committee. He has delivered numerous seminars and written articles in a myriad of topics but enjoys discussions on IT and Legal Technology subject matters.

Chan Weichi is part of the founding team of SINEGY, a home grown digital asset exchange in Malaysia that is amongst the first three companies that are regulated by the Securities Commission of Malaysia. Weichi has several years of experience in developing digital startups from different sectors, and is always dedicating his efforts to cultivate Malaysians in embracing the digital economy.
